

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An apparatus for pulling line through a raceway includes a plurality of interconnected retainer portions and an attachment portion. The plurality of interconnected retainer portions each has a one-way locking passage through the plurality of interconnected retainer portions that are adapted to retain the line. Further, the attachment portion is positioned on an end of the plurality of interconnected retainer portions.